Joe Hisaishi Symphonic Concert Music from The Studio Ghibli Films of Miyazaki

An amazing Premiere !

PARIS, 14.06.2017, 03:32 Time

USPA NEWS - Famous Japanese composer Joe Hisaishi was conducting at Palais des Congrès of Paris a world premiere Symphonic Concert. All shows have been sold out in only a few minutes after the opening box office a few months ago. It witnesses the passion for Studio Ghibli Films of Hayao Miyazaki and historical music attached to. The audience could listen during two hours some of these famous original soundtracks as "Nausicaa Legend of the Wind", "Princess Mononoké", "Chihiro". Coming from all part of France but also from whole Europe, Japan and even some American tourists, Joe Hisaishi has literally excited this public reserving also an amazing surprise at the middle of the concert. Some standing ovations and long clappings have saluted the perfect harmony between the master and the Lamoureux's Choirs and Orchestra joined also by the presence of Mai Fujisawa and Helen Bernardy for the songs. As watching some people staying for the evening performance, there is no doubt that his new Overlook Events' Production has deserved its success.

The success of Studio Ghibli Films worldwide makes no doubt. Since last few years each new animated movie is expected with great excitement. And as Hayao Miyazaki announced he would create another and last movie, the passion is growing again. But this success is also the result of a collaboration with the composer, pianist and Director's Orchestra Joe Hisaishi. His compositions become as famous as the movies. On the 9 and 10th of June he was directing a symphonic concert in Paris at "Palais des Congrès" as a new world production from Overlook Events. And the shows were all sold out.

On that Saturday afternoon the 10th, the metro station at Porte Maillot is full of people wearing Ghibli's T-shirts. Some would get a chance to meet Hisaishi after the show. This crowd even surprises some staff from the security at the entrance wondering about this phenomenal success. Inside the great amphitheater the enthusiasm is growing up having a look at the program that was kindly at disposal on each seat. It is a few minutes after 3PM when the organizer proudly announces the start of the concert without any break but advertising not to move away as lights will turn on. It is time to listen music..

On stage musicians and singers from the Lamoureux's Choir and Orchestra enter. Almost 200 persons will be part of the concert. Joe Hisaishi comes under first enthusiastic clappings, feeling happy to share live his musical themes. He seats at the piano and the first melody comes to the ears. The large screen behind tells in Japanese the name of the movie and the live music accompanies some extracts of the animated movie. Now Joe Hisaishi faces the orchestra and conducts "Nausicaa Requiem". Mai Fujisawa joins in a beautiful red dress and makes the public smile with her so gracious way to multiply the La la la...

Really respectful of the small breaking time between the different tracks, the audience is conquered and shows it by large clappings again. Soprano Hélène Bernardy appears her turn on stage to sing "Princess Mononoké" while on screen French subtitles of the song are written so the share with the audience is even better. Each main theme receives success and Mathieu Sarthe -Mouréou hoots with his mandoline while playing extracts from "The Wind is Rising... The harmony between Joe Hisaishi and musicians is undeniable...

As some discuss about what could be the major surprise, suddenly after "Ponyo on the Cliff by the Sea" the lights are turned on. The Orchestra leaves the stage. And from all around the Palais des Congrès resounds trumps, drums, saxophones and many others instruments. A major band is circling the audience all along the steps and in front of first row. An amazing and special atmosphere begins. Joe Hisaishi takes real pleasure to play with the public and also conducting the band and the young choirs on stage, sometimes almost a strange cacophony... But the magic is operating...

While the second part of the concert, Joe Hisaishi stills leading us to his univers through other success as "Porco Rosso", "The Castle in the Sky" or "Chihiro's travel". But when comes the time of "My Neighbor Totoro" the concert reaches its apogee with an infernal rhythm. All part of musicians stand up groups after groups so everyone share the joy of this final part. The first standing ovation is on while expecting some bonus. Hisaishi will respond to expectations by coming back alone at the piano before a last general final. He seems happy as everyone with such two hours of fabulous symphonic concert.

The show is over but this world Premiere is undoubtedly a phenomenal success announcing maybe more dates to come. People take their time to come back to real life by queueing in front of the shops to get some more souvenirs. Some of them will even return at the evening show. Undeniably the pleasure is intense. Last words would belong to Toshio Suzuki speaking about the collaboration between two geniuses. "35 years ago Joe Hisaishi was meeting Hayao Miyazaki. I don't dare to imagine the consequences if destiny has not made them meet that day in that situation. I do tell it often but I think Joe Hisaishi is the unique person that suits Hayao Miyazaki's films...." Waiting for the final project is already too long... But thanks for such a great live concert.
