IMAGINE THE WORLD TO COME AN AFRICAN PERSPECTIVE ON THE CONTINENTS

POST COVID 19 FUTURE BY UNESCO

Paris, Zanzibar, 07.05.2020, 01:41 Time

USPA NEWS - UNESCO will hold an online meeting of intellectuals, change makers and cultural personalities to take stock of the sociocultural implications of the COVID-19 pandemic on the future of societies on the African continent, online on 7 May from 2pm to 4.30. Held with the participation of Kwesi Quartey Vice-Chairperson of the African Union Commission and UNESCO Director-General Audrey Azoulay, the meeting is designed to develop an interdisciplinary African prospective analysis of the impact of the present health crisis on the continent, with expert contributions from the fields of philosophy, sociology, history and literature as well as political science. The debate is part of a longer term undertaking by UNESCO to serve as a laboratory of ideas to support societies' informed response to global and regional challenges.
